Spreadsheet Software

Today, Microsoft Excel is the most popular and widely used spreadsheet program, but there are also many alternatives. Most popular Spreadsheet software are:

- Microsoft Excel
- Google Sheets
- WPS Spreadsheets
- Libre Office Calc
- EtherCalc

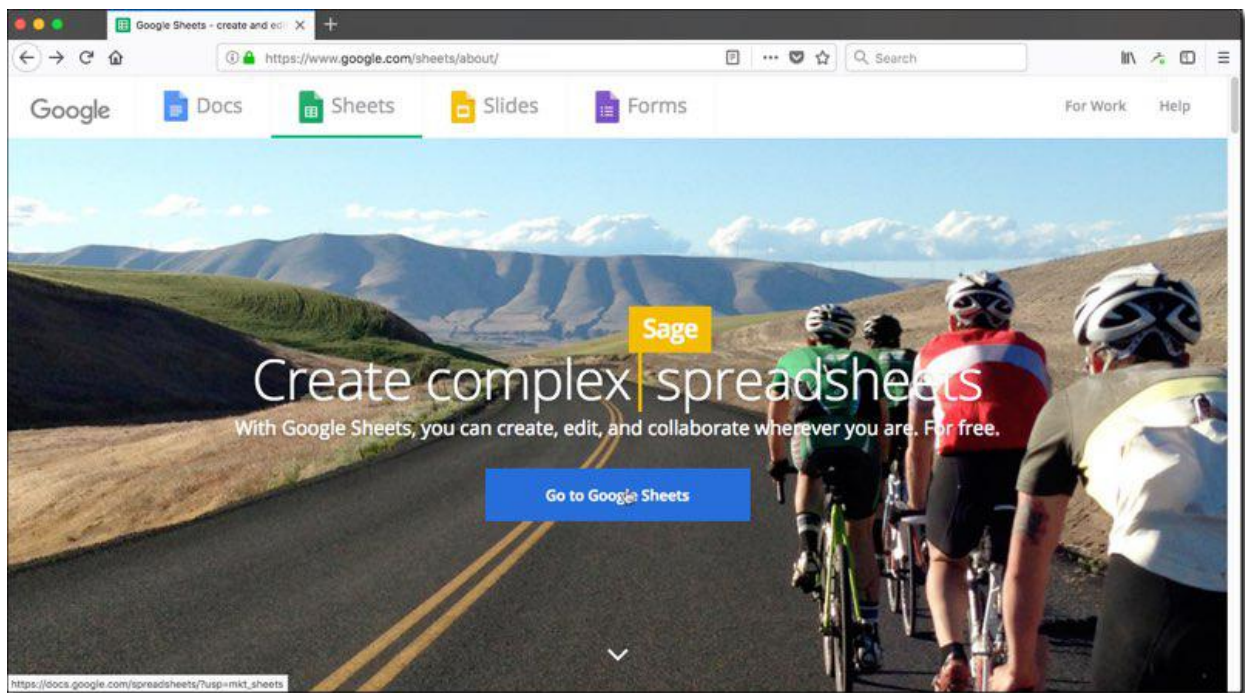

In this course we will use Google Sheet to learn about Spreadsheet.

What is Google Sheets?

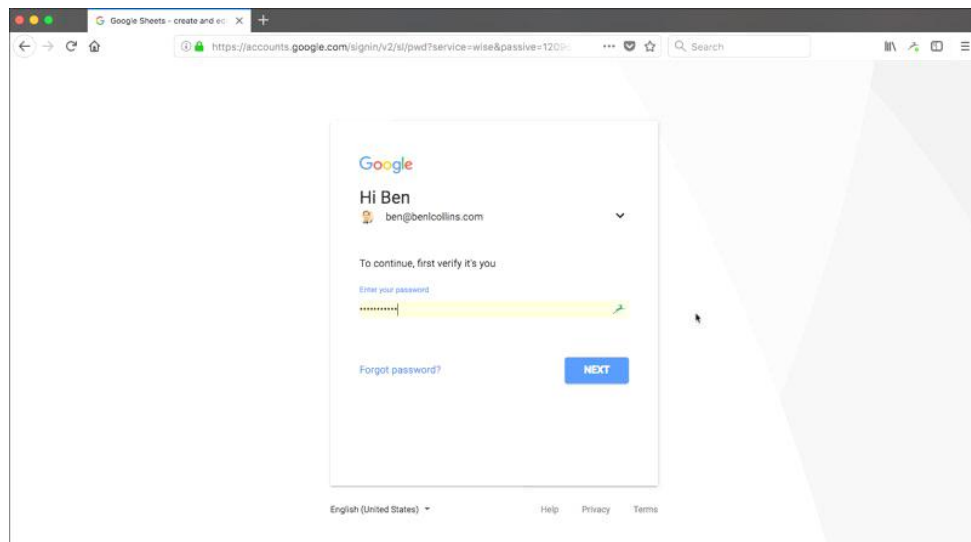

Google Sheets is a free, cloud-based spreadsheet application. That means you open it in your browser window like a regular web page, but you have all the functionality of a full spreadsheet application.

Getting Started with Google Sheet

If this is your first time with Sheets, head over to <https://www.google.com/sheets/about/> which looks like this:

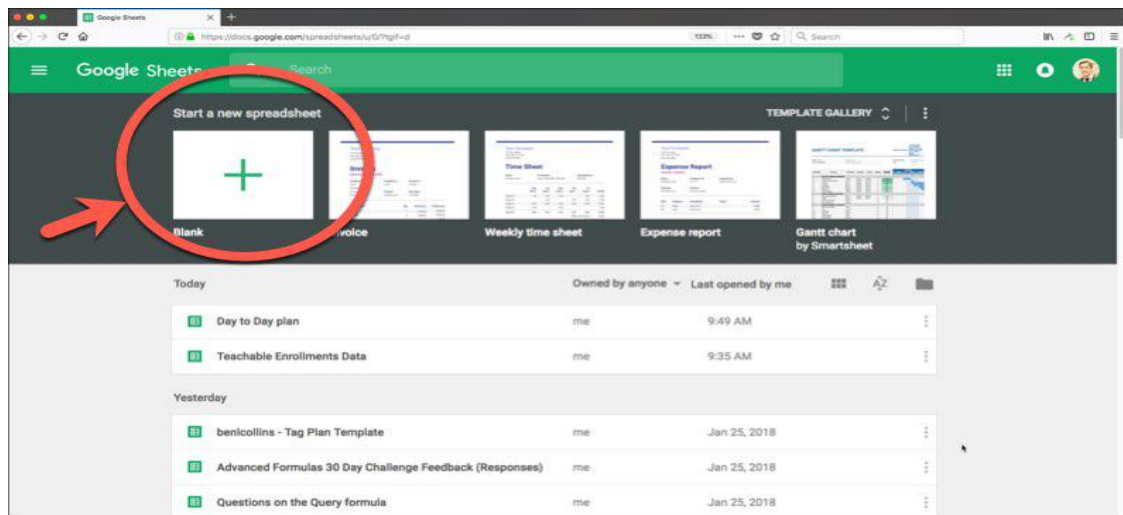

Click on the Go To Google Sheets button in the middle of the screen. You'll be prompted to login:

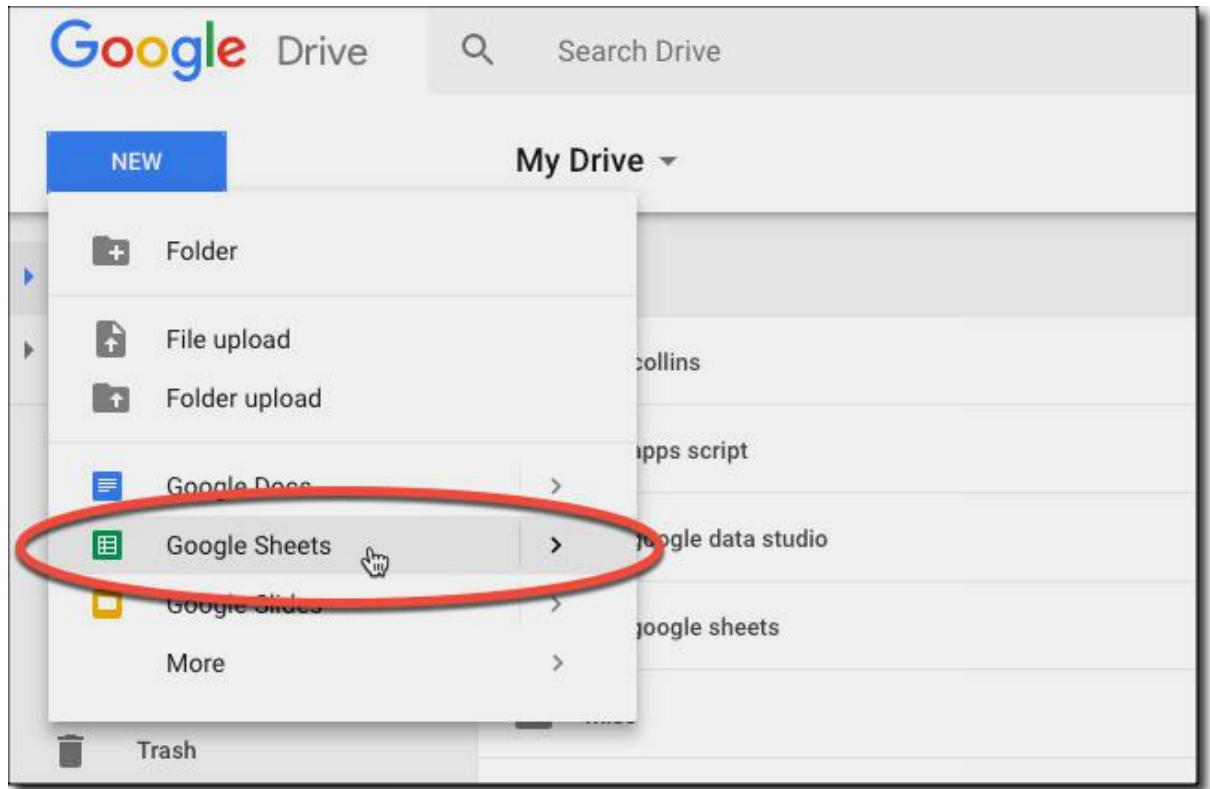

And then you arrive at the Google Sheets home screen, which will show any previous spreadsheets you've created.

Click the huge green plus button to create a new Google Sheet:

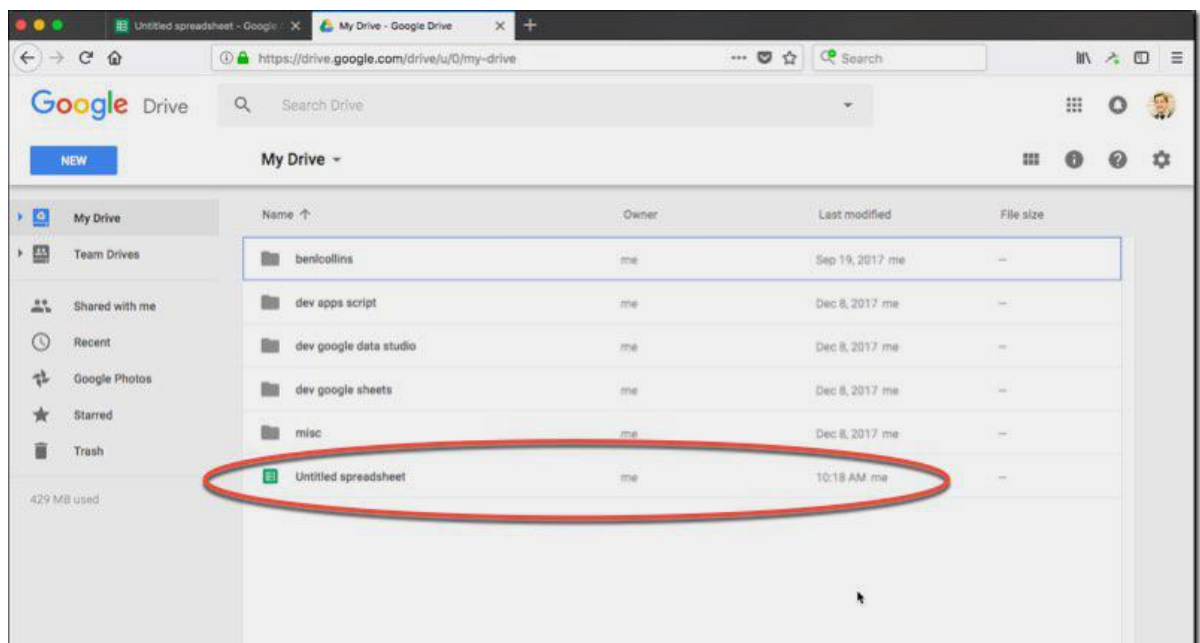

Opening your first Google Sheet from Drive

You can create new Google Sheets from your Drive folder by clicking on the blue NEW button:

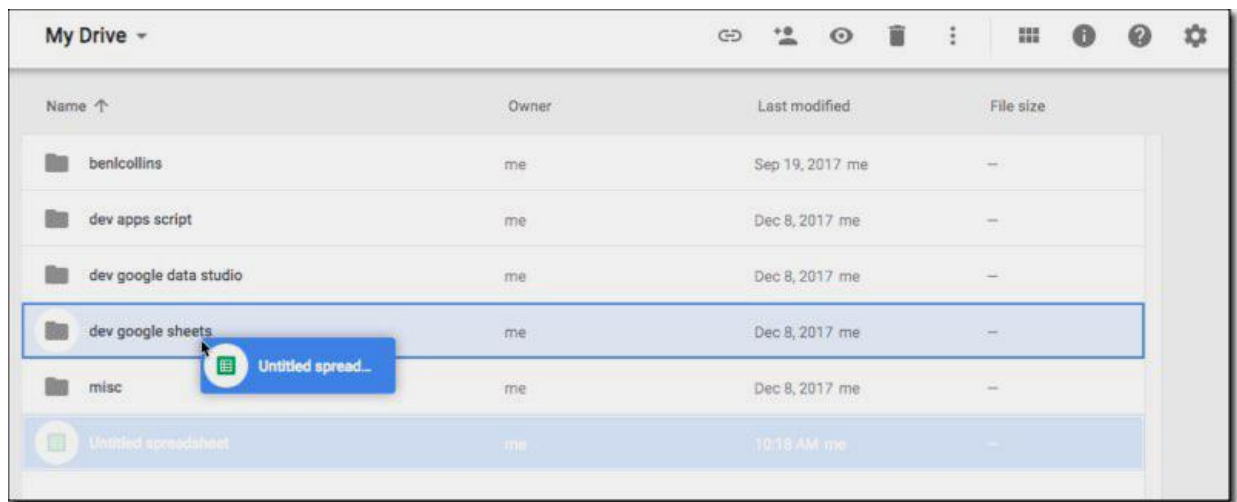

When you create a new Google Sheet, it'll be created in your main Drive folder (your root folder):

(Note: Don't panic if you don't see the Sheet yet, it may not show up until you've renamed it. See next step on how to do this.)

Here you can drag it to a different folder if you wish (to keep things organized). Do this by clicking-and-holding the file, and dragging to where you want it to go:

The Google Sheet editing window

This is what your blank Google Sheet will look like:
