

Ethics in IT

Class VIII
lab 5

Adware

Adware is software designed to force pre-chosen ads to display on your system

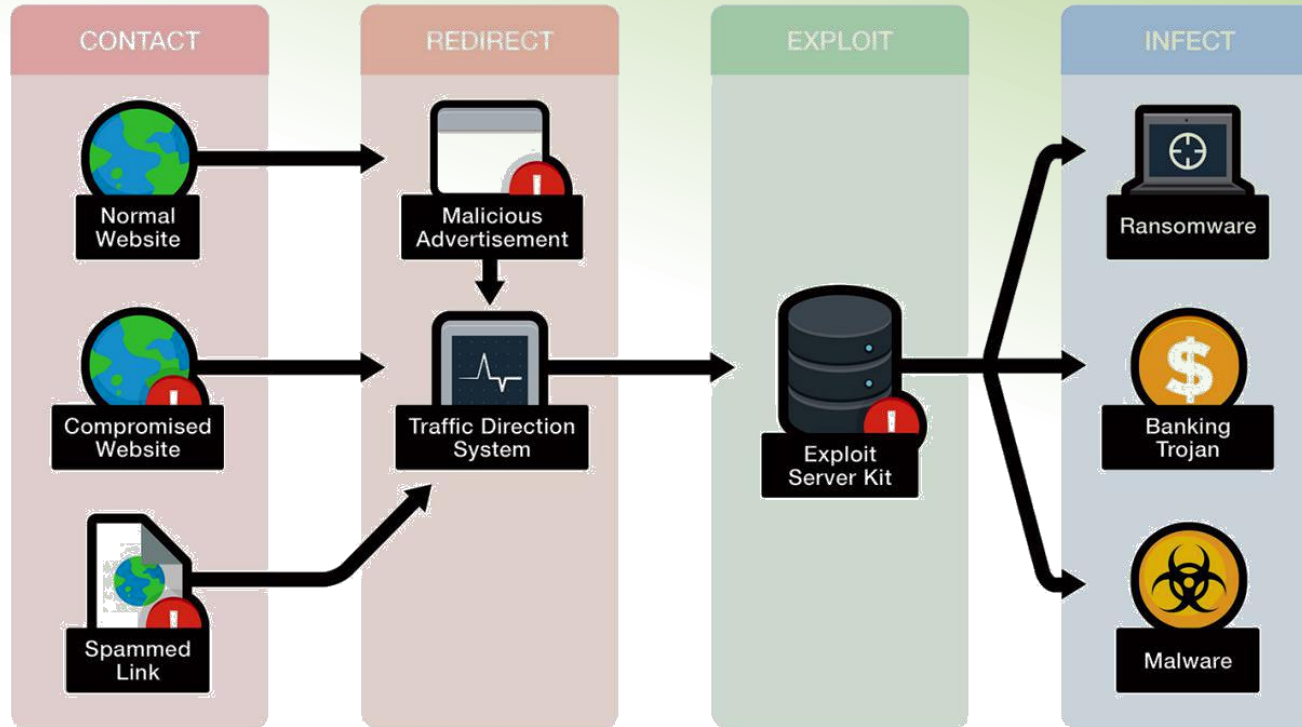

Attack

An attack is an action that is done on a system to get its access and extract sensitive data

Exploit Kit

An exploit kit is software system designed to run on web servers, with the purpose of identifying software vulnerabilities

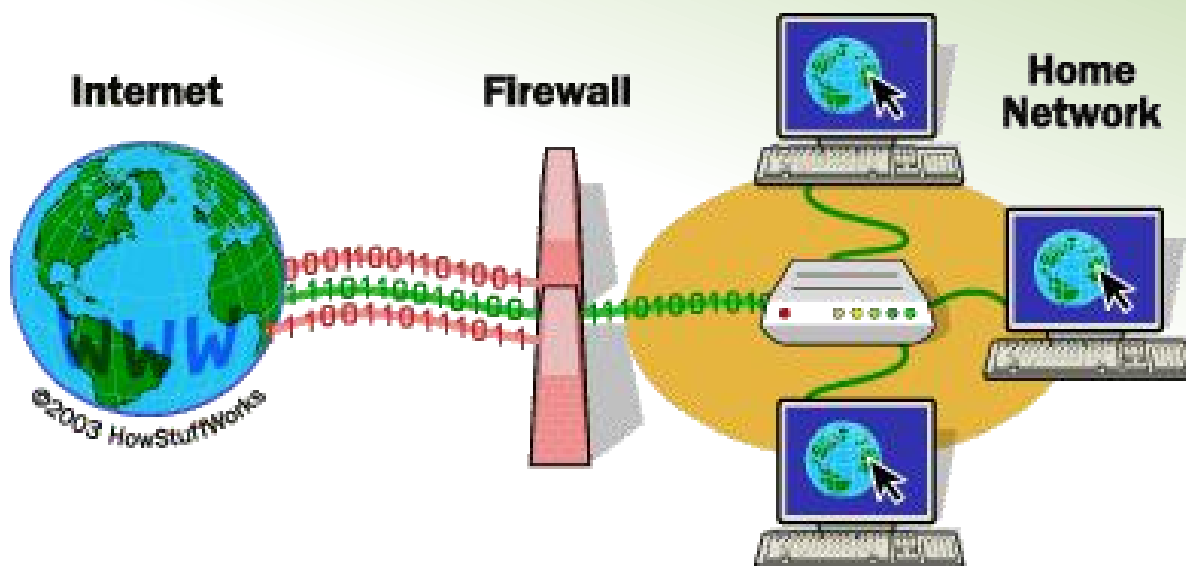

Exploit

Exploit is a piece of software that takes advantage of a bug or vulnerability to compromise the security of a computer

Firewall

A firewall is a filter designed to keep unwanted intruders outside a computer system

Logic bomb

A virus secreted into a system that triggers a malicious action when certain conditions are met

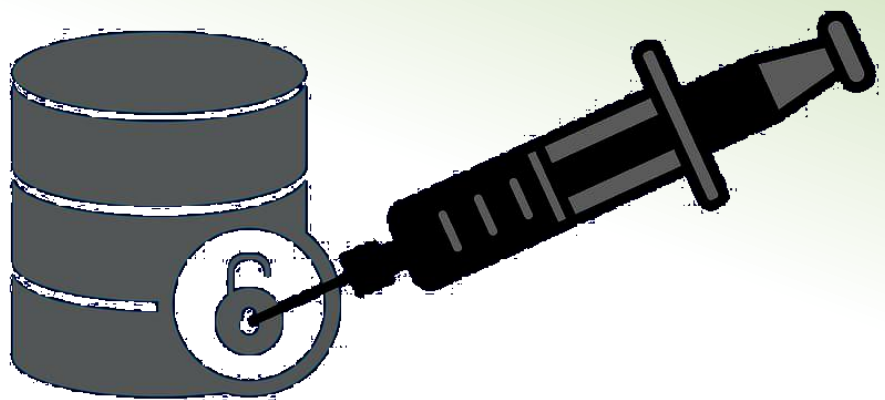

Phishing

Phishing is an e-mail fraud method to gather personal and financial information from recipients.

SQL Injection

SQL injection is an SQL code injection technique, used to attack data-driven applications

Thank you!

